PENNSYLVANIA GOVERNOR GOES TO SCENE OF FLOOD TO HELP AID THE VICTIMS

Local Authorities at Austin Take Steps to Fix Blame for the Disaster.

FOOD SUPPLY IS SHORT.

It Is Now Believed That Not More Than 100 Lost Lives in Torrent.

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 2.—An organization has been perfected here to prod the authorities into immediate investigation of the cause of the collapse of the Bayless Dam. Thus far the officials clothed with power to start such an investigation have not shown any disposition to set the machinery in motion.

Gov. John K. Tener started here this afternoon to take personal charge of the relief work and possibly to direct the investigation.

District Attorney of Potter County is H. A. Nelson. There is no regularly elected Coroner, and that office has not been filled for some time. Owing to the absence of one regularly authorized to hold inquests, such legal investigations have been entrusted to a justice of the peace.

The District Attorney is not empowered to begin an official investigation on his own account. He must act on a Coroner's report. Consequently the first step to be taken is the holding of an inquest. This will be done before a justice of the peace and one or more of the known victims will be selected as the subject of the inquiry.

On the report of the official in charge of the inquest the District Attorney will take prompt action. The Attorney-General of the State of Pennsylvania will also take part in reaching a determination as to responsibility for the disaster.

DAM NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO HOLD WATER BEHIND IT.

The dam was less than two years old. It was completed on Dec. 1, 1909, and in January, 1910, was found to be defective. It was not strong enough to hold the volume of water behind it.

The Bayless Company asked for the advice of engineers. Among those who suggested improvements were T. Chalkley Hatten, the engineer who designed the dam.

It is said by officers of the Bayless Company that inasmuch as Mr. Hatten had designed the original dam and it did not come up to requirements, his advice was ignored and other engineers were employed. Mr. Hatten has now made statements which would tend to place responsibility for the disaster directly upon the Bayless corporation.

The big pulp concern has the defense that what repairs were made to the dam had the sanction of engineers and that the structure was supposed to be safe. It is pointed out by the Bayless people that that was about $200,000 and they would not knowingly have run a risk of incurring this loss if the expenditure of a few thousand dollars could have prevented it.

Only a small amount of food and clothing necessary for the protection and sustenance of the homeless has arrived here. The reason is that Austin lies in a valley that can be reached by only one railroad, a single track line running over a "switchback" in the mountains from Keating's Summit. Only small trains can be handled and the sidetrack facilities of the town are limited.

SUPPLY OF FOOD AND CLOTHING SHORT.

The supply of food is short. Survivors are living with friends. Money is not of much use because nothing can be bought. What Austin needs is a lot of clothing, lots of food and lots of building supplies for temporary shelter.

The problem of clearing away the debris still perplexes Dr. Dixon of the State Board of Health and the Citizens Committee. There should be thousands of men at work under skilled direction. Only a few hundreds are working, and they, in a haphazard way. Urgent need exists for a new water supply, but this problem is one easy of solution in a country full of springs and brooks running bank-deep with fresh water.

The work of burying the dead began today.

CAPT. HAINS FREE; LEAVES SING SING WITH AGED FATHER

Pardoned Slayer of Annis Goes at Once to Washington to Visit Mother.

GETS $21 ON RELEASE.

May Ask Congress for Reinstatement in Army or Start New in South America.

Captain J. Conover Hains, Jr., formerly of the United States Coast Artillery, left Sing Sing prison at 9 o'clock today, pardoned by Governor Dix for killing William E. Annis on the floor of the Bayless Yacht Club in August, 1908.

The executive order for the release of Hains reached Warden Kennedy at 7:30 o'clock. After an hour and a half the prisoner came from his quarters to the Warden's office, went through the formal details essential to his release and left the prison with his father, General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A.

The joy of the elder man over the event exceeded that of the son. From the day when Justice Garretson sentenced the General he never allowed a day to pass without making an effort to procure the pardon of his son.

In the trials of Thornton Jenkins Hains and Peter C. Hains Jr. the family fortune was much strained. Aside from his pay as a retired Brigadier-General, the father had a prosperous manufacturing business. The convicted son was a partner in the business to the extent of supplying some capital and his splendid ability as an engineer.

CAPT. HAINS OF A STRONG MATHEMATICAL BENT.

Few men in the army had more mathematical bent than the captain, and it was of value in the family business, which was centered in a new process of cement construction. The business of cement construction. Men like Thomas A. Edison had long seen the value of the industry, and the Hains family were among the pioneers in its development.

In addition, Thornton Hains had some resources, and he has kept his income going with magazine work. All the family poured their available money into the defense fund and into the later fund that kept up an incessant hammering for a pardon for the convicted brother.

Capt. Hains arrived in New York at 10 o'clock.

"I have nothing to say at this time," he said. "I may have later, but I am not sure. I am going straight through to Washington to see my mother."

"Yes, she is waiting, waiting to see him," exclaimed Gen. Hains.

They took the train at once for Washington, where plans for Capt. Hains' future will be made.

Among the plans are: Asking Congress to reinstate him in the army, which must be done by a special act, if at all.

Engaging with his father in the cement business.

Seeking a new field in South America.

FAMILY REJOICES OVER THE LIBERTY OF CAPT. HAINS.

It is probable no determination will be made for some days. The family is too much engaged just now in rejoicing over the release of the son to pay much attention to any other matter.

Gen. Hains and Thornton went yesterday to Sing Sing and passed the night at a hotel, awaiting the arrival of the pardon. The General was awakened at 5:30 o'clock and waited during the chilly early hours for the pardon.

At the prison clerk's office, as he left, Capt. Hains received $19, which the State gives to every man as he leaves the prison. To this was added $157, which he had earned at the rate of 13-1/2 cents a day for each working day he spent in the prison. He was also entitled to 12 cents as his fare back to Queens Borough and this was made up to $244. He received 75-1/2.

GIANTS SMOTHER PHILLIES AND WIN, SCORE 12 TO 3

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 2.—The long tour of the Giants was concluded this afternoon, when a final stab for the pennant was made at the Phillies before a crowd of 1,000 people. The air had quite a tinge of frost, and overcoats became a necessity before the teams had finished their practice.

Among the faithful Quakers who braved the chill to come and bid the Giants farewell were two or three members of the champion Athletics. They came to look things over with a careful eye, but were disappointed over being unable to see Mathewson in action. McGraw decided to hold the big fellow over for a later game at New York and leave this one to Old Doc Crandall.

The Old Doc is pre-eminent on chilly afternoons, and as long as there was a chance to win the pennant today McGraw, out of pure sentiment, decided to give the honor to the hero of Wadina.

Among the distinguished spectators was Charles P. Taft, brother of the President. Next to him sat Connie Mack, manager, and Ben Shibe, President of the Athletics. They all went down to shake hands with McGraw and congratulate him on his success in the National League.

The Giants made preparations to leave the grounds immediately after the game and catch a 5:15 train for New York.

The Giants jumped into Alexander with both feet and cracked in a lead of two runs before the dust had settled. After Devore had gone out on a grounder to Lobert, Doyle singled and went to third on Snodgrass's safe crack into right. Snodgrass immediately stole second, and both he and Doyle came home when Murray slammed the ball to the far corner of the lot for three bases. Murray tried to make it a home run, but was thrown out at the plate. Merkle did on a hot smash to third.

In the second inning Fletcher and Herzog died on grounders and Meyers fled to center.

The lead of two runs didn't phase the Phillies, however, for they came right back and made three. Knabe started it by rapping Doyle straight through to center and Lobert planted another one in the same spot. Magee then walked and filed the bases. Doyle made a bad fumble of Luderus's grounder and Knabe scored. Paskert hit into a double play, which was started by Fletcher, but before it was completed Lobert scored. Titus singled past second and Magee scored. Herzog threw out Doonan.

The Phillies also drew a blank in the second, Kniffer bounding to the pitcher, Alexander flying to center and Knabe striking out.

The Giants had a great chance in the third but failed to put any over. Crandall opened with a single and Devore walked. Doyle fanned. Devore at second, Crandall going to third. With three balls and two strikes called on him Snodgrass struck out and Doyle died stealing on the same play.

With one down in Philadelphia's half, Magee got a base on balls, and Luderus rolled out to Doyle and Herzog got Paskert.

The Giants were helpless in the fourth. Murray fanned Titus to the catcher, Merkle doing the whiff and Herzog grounding to Doonan.

The Phillies failed to reach first in the fifth.

GIRL SECRETARY FIRST WITNESS AGAINST FLAGG

Miss Russe, Supposed to Be Ill, Rushes to Federal Building to Testify.

Madeline Russe, formerly employed as secretary by Jared Flagg, was the first witness called by the Federal Grand Jury today, at the beginning of the investigation into Flagg's $2 per cent. financial operations.

In preparing to present the charge of using the mails for purposes of fraud against Flagg and his associates United States District Attorney Wise expected to begin with the testimony of expert accountants and bookkeepers. He had been informed that Miss Russe was ill in White Plains and could not appear for several days.

The young woman's sister, Isabelle Russe, had just related to Mr. Wise that when Madeline herself drove up to the Federal Building in a taxicab, she hurried up to Wise's office and announced she was ready to go before the Grand Jury and tell everything she knew about her former employer's financial methods.

The young woman associated with the elderly financier will be called later. A third young woman who has not yet appeared in the case is expected to arrive from Europe in a few days. She is said to be employed in Flagg's office with Hazel Murray, who was later succeeded by Madeline Russe. She went abroad last spring.

P. T. Nease, the only victim of the raid to remain in jail, obtained freedom today, when Judge Hough reduced his bail to $250. Previously his bail had been reduced from $100 to $250. The National Society Company furnished the bond.

BOMBARDMENT OF TRIPOLI BEGUN BY ITALY'S WARSHIPS

Time Limit Set for Evacuation of City Expires and Guns Pave Way for Invaders.

ROME, Oct. 2.—The Italian fleet off Tripoli is bombarding the city today, according to an official statement given out here. Owing to the censorship it is still uncertain whether a bombardment preceded the Turkish evacuation of the fortifications Saturday. This seems to bear out the Italian Government's statement that the bombardment was delayed in the hope that Turkey might come to terms. Evidently the hope has failed to do so.

The landing of troops under cover of the guns will follow the first heavy fire. Wireless messages were received here today from the Italian fleet off Tripoli. They state that the city is now practically deserted except for the Turkish garrison. The only Italians remaining are the Apostolic Delegate and a few French monks, who refused to leave.

TURKEY SENDS NOTE OF COMPLAINT TO ENGLAND.

A message in Italy from an Italian warship off Tripoli today's date quoted the Italian Consul as saying that the bombardment would begin three days after the notification of his population to evacuate, which was given on Saturday. Another dispatch to a paper at Rome from Malta last night also said that the bombardment would begin today.

The Turkish Ambassador, Tahir Pasha, presented a note from his government to the Foreign Office today complaining that, contrary to all international rules of warfare, the declaration of war against Turkey had been preceded by hostilities upon the part of the Italian warships.

For this reason, Turkey both lawfully and by reason of the existing situation declared war on Italy.

The Italian Government has declared the offers of Albanians, Croats, Servians, Montenegrins, Bulgarians and

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN RICH HOME VISITED BY THIEVES

Miss Anita Ketchum Discovered in Madison Avenue House With Face Bruised and Contents of Drawers Scattered Around Room.

CARETAKER DECLARES SHE WAS SLAIN BY BURGLARS

Police Work on Suicide Theory and Summon Finger Print Expert to Examine Marks on Glass.

Mrs. Anita M. Ketchum, forty-five years old, manager of the Brearley School at No. 17 West Forty-fourth street, cousin by marriage to Edwin Thorne, one of the best known capitalists in this city, and descended from one of the best known New England families, was found dead under suspicious circumstances in her room on the third floor, rear, of the Thorne home, at No. 558 Madison avenue, this morning. The left side of her face was black and blue.

The room was in a state of disorder. Some of the silver toilet articles that had stood on Miss Ketchum's dresser were strewn about on the floor. Her hand bag and dress suit case were thrown open, and the contents scattered all over the room. Two drawers of the bureau in the room were wide open, and their contents piled up in careless confusion, as if some one had thoroughly ransacked them.

"There is nothing to indicate that Miss Ketchum committed suicide," declared Granville Parker, talking for Edwin Thorne, after the two men, together with Julien T. Davies, Mr. Thorne's lawyer, had heard the caretaker's story and conferred with the police. "We are not willing to make the direct statement that she was murdered, nor are we willing to discard the possibility of that having happened until the Coroner's autopsy has determined the cause of death. She was a woman of excellent personality and habits. The last attack of heart failure from which she suffered occurred about a year ago. We could find nothing to indicate strangulation or any other form of foul play, but as to the real cause of her death we are as much in the dark as the police."

BINGHAM WINS IN COURT FIGHT AGAINST MAYOR

Court of Appeals Sustains Decision of the Appellate Division.

ALBANY, Oct. 2.—A decision was handed down by the Court of Appeals today in favor of Theodore A. Bingham, former Police Commissioner of New York City, in an action against Mayor Gaynor who, before his election, severely criticized the Police Department in the case of a young man named Duffy, whom Gaynor claimed was being hounded by the police.

The Appellate Division sustained the lower court's decision, which holds that the Mayor's action, while in part specific, does not constitute a complete defense of the cause of action set forth in the complaint. Bingham had demurred to the answer.

NEW PERCH FOR DIANA.

Suggestion Made That She Go on New Municipal Building.

Diana, who, from her perch on the tower of Madison Square Garden, aims her arrow at Broadway, may be transferred to the tower of the new Municipal Building in Park Row, where she can watch the daily bridge-traffic. Frederick H. Johnson of No. 27 West Forty-fourth street, in a letter to the Mayor, says:

"In all news articles about the sale of the Madison Square Garden I see no reference to Diana. She is a landmark to many New Yorkers and a work of art without a peer in our great city. Why not have her buy her and put her on our magnificent Municipal Building, now in course of erection?"

"The Mayor thinks it isn't a bad idea, but he has not yet answered the letter."

Staircase reservations and tickets will be on sale at the Madison Square Garden and the Municipal Building. Tickets for the Municipal Building will be on sale at the Municipal Building. Tickets for the Municipal Building will be on sale at the Municipal Building.
